

FOR STATE ASSESSOR

HON. LUCIUS C. MORSE OF LIBERTY.

Hon. Lucius C. Morse of Liberty returned last week from a tour of the State in the interest of his candidacy for the office of State Assessor, to succeed Hon. F. Marion Simpson of Bangor, whose term will soon expire and who is not a candidate for re-election. Mr. Morse has seen much public service, has a wide acquaintance, and his candidacy is approved by leading men all over the State. He has served three terms in the legislature, one in the House and two in the Senate, was a trustee of the State School for Boys 1897-1903, has been a trustee of the Maine State fair since 1899 and was a member of the Andersonville Monument commission. Born in Belmont he has lived in Liberty for the past 40 years and has held a number of town offices. He is one of four brothers who went to the front in the Civil war, and served in Company D, 26th Maine Regiment. He is a charter member of the local Grange and active and interested in its work. His years of experience in the various positions he has so acceptably filled would seem to give him exceptional qualifications for the place he seeks.

FRANCIS SURRENDERS.

HE IS FOUND SLEEPING IN A BARN IN GLENBURN. THE OFFICERS ARE NOTIFIED AND TAKE HIM INTO CUSTODY.

Last week's report of the movements of Francis, the escaped convict, ended with his stealing a team from the stable of Alton I. Heal in East Searmont. Six hours later his pursuers were on his track and traced him through Belmont to Montville, but lost the trail on a sand hill at the four corners in South Montville, about three miles from the direct road leading to Augusta. He was next heard from in the town of Monroe Thursday. Clifton Moore, who lives near Lord's bridge in Monroe, saw smoke rising above the trees on his wood lot and started to investigate. Going along a wood road he found a horse and wagon and a little beyond saw a fire, and working about was a colored man, who from the descriptions given he recognized as Francis. Mr. Moore at once returned home and driving to Monroe village notified Warden Norton by telephone. The latter sent word to Inspector Robinson, then at Sandpoint, and directed that men from Monroe village be stationed at Lord's bridge to prevent the escape of the fugitive by that highway until the arrival of Inspector Robinson and his force from Sandpoint. In the meantime, however, Deputy Sheriff Drake of Frankfort had heard of the whereabouts of Francis, and gave chase only to lose him in the woods. He recovered the team, which was recognized as the property of Mr. Heal, and it was turned over to the owner later at Frankfort. With a fast horse Inspector Robinson and Deputy Marshal Leader of Lewiston were only half an hour in getting from Sandpoint to Monroe and were greatly disappointed when they heard that the bird had flown. Meanwhile Warden Norton was on his way to the scene of action. Leaving the prison at 5.15 he went to Camden by the electric and drove from there to Belfast. Here a fresh team awaited him and he went through to Monroe. The woods into which Francis had been chased in the afternoon extend over an area of several miles. A cordon was placed about the woods and a guard placed on Lord's bridge, and thus ends the story up to and including Thursday night.

Now to go back a little. Sometime Wednesday night the general store of W. A. Griffin in Park, Searmont, was broken open and a summer cottage at Sandpoint in Stockton Springs was entered by some one who placed a horse in an adjoining stable and fed him. The officers were of the opinion that both breaks were made by Francis and subsequent events seem to bear them out in this theory. The Griffin store contains the post office, but as the money and stamps are not left in the office over night nothing was obtained there, but provisions were missing from the store. Early Friday some one, presumably Francis, was fired at by James Wormley of Monroe and frightened away while attempting to steal a horse and wagon to replace those recovered Thursday night. A stable not far from where the East Searmont stable outfit was captured was broken open and a light wagon was hauled to a field about 200 rods away. Then a horse was led to the field. When discovered the invader was searching for a harness. Wormley fired one shot at him, but missed, and Francis, if it was he, made good his escape into the woods. The night was so dark that an effort to overtake him was considered useless. At dawn, however, the officers, joined by many villagers, began a search of the woods.

Friday morning Warden Norton divided his forces into small squads and a thorough search of all buildings, including those on the fair grounds, in the outlying districts of Monroe was made, without result. Parties searching in the woods were several times on what they supposed to be the convict's trail, only to lose it. The Bangor News reports the following sensational incident of the day:

About 4.30 in the afternoon one of the searching squads saw a dark skinned man approaching with a revolver in his hand, and ordered him to halt. The man with the revolver paid no attention to the demand—may not have heard it, and continued to advance, whereupon the one who challenged him—a dead shot—raised his rifle and in another instant Sheriff Carleton (for it was he) would have been a dead man. Before the man with the rifle could press the trigger, however, Carleton doak, the Bangor Daily News correspondent, who was in command of the squad, yelled, "For God's sake don't shoot—don't you know that's the sheriff?" The man behind the gun came near fainting, and Sheriff Carleton must have had a little shake himself. It was as close a call as any man could have and come out of it alive. After this those searchers who are not acquainted with the dark complexioned men in the posse will take a good, long look before they fire. Sheriff Carleton was also held up by another member of his posse Friday.

The searching party at this time consisted of about fifty men, including the following officers: Warden Norton, Post Office Inspector W. B. Robinson of Portland, Sheriff Amos F. Carleton of Belfast, Deputy Sheriff P. G. Hurd of Northport, Deputy Marshal Richard Leader of Lewiston, Policeman William Kallioch of Rockland and Policeman George W. Frisbee of Belfast. They had a hard day's work and Friday night found them tired out. Warden Norton, Sheriff Carleton, Deputy Hurd and Policeman Frisbee returned to Belfast Saturday, and Mr. Norton left for Thomaston on the afternoon boat. He showed signs of the trying ordeal he has been through, and deplores the many unfounded and sensational stories in circulation. Mr. Norton did not say so, but others know that the officers have been handicapped in their search by the reluctance of people to give information until too late to be of service, and that there is more or less sympathy for the fugitive.

The report that Francis had stolen a horse from the stable of Galen Kent in Orrington was investigated and found to be groundless, like many other stories that have found their way into print.

Saturday and Sunday brought no tangible results, but Monday reports were received that two houses had been entered in Prospect Sunday morning and that Monday morning a grip containing a suit of clothes and underwear had been found at R. E. Cottrell's steam mill on the back road to Searmont. The houses entered were those of Orrin B. Gray and Wm. Shute, and from the Gray house a hatchet and blanket were taken, and from the other taken beans, bread and cake. Monday night Francis was reported to be surrounded in a barn in Monroe; but that evidently was not so, for Tuesday morning early he was said to have entered the house of Mrs. Angelina Trevett in Prospect, a mile from the Frankfort line, where food was spread upon the table and eaten. Then the stable was entered and a horse, grocery wagon, fur robe and horse blanket taken. The team was found later in the day at Six Mile Falls, six miles above Bangor, which is on one of the most direct routes to the Western wilderness and Canada.

This looked as if Francis had made good his escape; but yesterday news came of his capture at Glenburn, 14 miles above Bangor. He was found sleeping at 10 a. m. in a barn, presumably cold and exhausted, and the farmer who found him took Francis into his house and warmed and fed him, in the meantime notifying the authorities in Bangor. Post Office Inspector Robinson of Portland, Deputy Marshal Leader of Lewiston and two Bangor deputies went to Glenburn at once and soon had Francis in custody. He made no resistance, and by the time this appears in print will no doubt be again in the State prison. This will be good news to many who have been terrorized since his escape Nov. 12th.

CLAMS. The lobster has gone beyond the reach of the average pocketbook, and now there is much talk of the growing scarcity of clams and the mournful prediction is made that this shell fish may become extinct. Perish the thought! What, no more clam chowders or clam stews; no more fried clams; no more clamcakes on the shore in the glad summer time? No doubt in the vicinity of the canning factories and at the points where clams are dug for shipment the flats may have been depleted; but local marketmen tell us that the shortage here for the past month or two is not due to the scarcity of clams but of men to dig them. Those who usually dig for the local markets in Islesboro and vicinity are employed about the summer cottages or at Stockton Springs, and later the usual supply of these indispensable bivalves may be had. Let us hope so, at all events.

A movement is on foot in this city to start a boys' club and it is requested that all interested should meet tomorrow, Friday, evening at 7 o'clock at the police court rooms to formulate some plan. As this is a worthy movement it is desired that a large number should express their ideas along this line and if possible form a temporary organization and select the necessary committees. That there is need of something of this nature under good management has been demonstrated in several cases, and this seems an ideal time to make such a movement.

A faithful wife and mother, it can be truly said of her, "She hath done what she could; enter thou into thy joy."

Augusta's New Ordinance.

Augusta has a new ordinance. The city government has passed without a dissenting vote the following: Be it ordained by the city council of the City of Augusta, as follows:

"Section 1. Whoever wilfully or negligently spits upon any sidewalk, or in any public building in the City of Augusta shall be fined not less than $1 nor more than $10, and in default of payment may be imprisoned not exceeding 10 days.

"Section 2. The city marshal is hereby directed to enforce the foregoing section."

This is in line with similar legislation that has been passed by nearly all Maine municipalities and City Marshal Donovan says that he will enforce the law to the letter.

"AVOID ALCOHOL."

Worse Than Consumption, Says Dr. Crothers.

The contention that alcohol is beneficial in the treatment of tuberculosis was declared to be delirious by Dr. T. D. Crothers, superintendent of Walnut Lodge Hospital, Hartford, Conn., in an address before the recent international congress on tuberculosis in New York city. He declared that, on the contrary, alcohol is really more dangerous than the disease it is given to correct. Dr. Crothers said:

"Alcohol as a remedy or a preventive medicine is a most dangerous drug. All preparations of syrups containing spirits increase rather than diminish the disease. They may cover up the bad symptoms, but they increase the poisons. Rock and rye prescriptions make the conditions more incurable.

"Alcohol is a narcotic, and while quieting the pain, and lessening the cough, diminishes the vitality and power of nature to overcome the disease. Consumption and alcoholism are twin sisters. The subsidence of the one is followed by the development of the other.

"Alcoholic parents are followed by consumptive children, and consumptive parents have alcoholic children. Statistics show that at least a third of the descendants of inebriates have consumption, and fully a fourth of the children of consumptives become spirit drinkers.

"Spirit drinkers living in close, bad air always have lung diseases. Alcohol and drug taking are very active causes of consumption for the reason that they diminish the vitality of the body and the power to resist bacteria invasions. Also they add to the toxins and poisons of the system. Consumption may not break out from these causes, but pneumonia is almost certain to follow. Children born during this period are almost certain to be inebriates in any ordinary exposure. Both of these diseases depend on poisons and low vitality.

"In alcoholism the system is starved and the brain and nerves suffer, and alcohol is a most grateful narcotic. In consumption a local inflammation exists, encouraged by low resisting power and general degeneration."

OLD HOME WEEK.

Plan to Have New England States Unite on a Specific Week.

Boston, Nov. 21. At a meeting of the New England Passenger Association held here today a proposition was submitted to have all the New England States unite in a uniform Old Home Week, in order that the railroads of this section may be able to secure low annual Old Home excursion rates from the western lines.

The question was discussed at considerable length, and while there was some difference of opinion manifested as to the expediency of having all the New England States unite on a specific week, it was admitted that some such change is necessary if the cooperation of the western roads is to be secured.

The question will come up for definite action at the next meeting of the association.

This is Worth Remembering.

The Watermans of Maine.

Charles E. Waterman, editor of the Mechanic Falls Ledger, has just issued a book on "The Watermans," with an account of the Watermans of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut. Mr. Waterman has been at work upon this book for about eight years. The first member of the family to live in Maine was Richard Waterman. It is known that he was living in Boston in 1629. It is thought that all of the Watermans in Maine, with three exceptions, are descendants of Robert Waterman.

MANY SUDDEN DEATHS

From Poisonous Rheumatism

The Disease has its Dangers—Should be Taken in Time.

Rheumatism has long been regarded as a trouble which, while it might be painful, was not necessarily dangerous. Very few persons, it was thought, ever died from Rheumatism. Recent investigation among scientists has proved, however, the utter fallacy of such a belief. Three-fourths to seven-eighths of the sudden deaths, heart failure, are due primarily to Rheumatism. The Rheumatic Acid Poison is allowed to stay in the system until suddenly one day it grips the muscles of the heart and is over.

Rheumatism is curable if the proper treatment is used. Lumbago, plaster and local applications may relieve the pain for a short time, but no one ever heard of their permanently curing a case of rheumatism. The only way to cure Rheumatism is the Urice-O way. Neutralize the Rheumatic acid and drive it from the system. That is what Urice-O does. No matter what is the kind or character of the Rheumatism, it is all caused by the same Rheumatic poison. Lumbago, Muscular Arterial Rheumatism yields at once to Urice-O. The store of R. H. Moody is the home of Urice-O in Belfast and he can tell you about it. Urice-O is sold in the many cities. It has made right here in your own town. It sells for 75c. and $1.00 a bottle. If you wish to test it before purchasing, write a letter to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., will bring you a trial bottle free of all charges.

Some little excitement was caused here last Thursday morning when it was reported that the store of Capt. W. A. Griffin in Park had been entered by breaking in a front window and some candy and cakes taken. The break was laid to Minot St. Clair Francis, the "elusive coon" who escaped from the Maine State prison. The reward for the capture of this coon had no attraction for the people here. Francis was well known here, having made many visits to the village while in the employ of contractor W. C. Jones at Kidder's Point, where he worked in the grading crew in 1905. Alton Heat of East Seamsmont, whose horse and wagon were taken by Francis, was in town Thursday afternoon, en route to Bangor, where his team was in the possession of Deputy Sheriff Richard Drake.

OBITUARY. Capt. Fred S. Dyer, formerly of Portland, died at his home in Seasport on the 21st inst., after a long illness. About 15 years ago he had paralysis, since which time he has grown slowly worse until death ensued at the age of 63 years and 9 months. Capt. Dyer was a native of North Haven, the son of Capt. Nathaniel North, who was bred to the life of a sailor. He commanded some of the best vessels sailing out of Portland, and for many years was in the West India business, where he had a large fleet engaged in the trade with Cuba. He also sailed several vessels from Bath, where he at one time resided. In the three-masted schooner, Carrie A. Lane, of Bath, Capt. Dyer made a voyage from Baltimore to San Francisco, which was the first schooner to take a cargo of coal around Cape Horn. Capt. Dyer's first command was the bark Alice, which he subsequently the brig J. Polledo, bark Alice, sch. Carrie A. Lane, the bark Elizabeth Lizzie Carter and the bark Samuel H. Nickerson. The bark Alice was built for her, during the Civil War Capt. Dyer, then mate, was twice captured by rebel privateers, the vessels being burned. The first time was early in the war, his vessel being overhauled 10 miles from Matanzas, Cuba, by Capt. Semmes, in the privateer Sumpter. The crew were given the long boat and proceeded back to Matanzas, while the vessel was destroyed. In the summer of 1863 Capt. Dyer was mate of the bark P. C. Alexander, bound from Portland to Cape Breton. The vessel sailed one morning from Harpswell and when off Monhegan island was captured by the rebel privateer Ticona in one of her northern raids. The Alexander's crew, with others, were put on board a small captured vessel and ordered to port, but the captain landed them on Monhegan. After quitting the sea Capt. Dyer entered into the retail boot and shoe business with his son at 145 Middle street, Portland, the firm being F. S. Dyer & Son. Four years ago Capt. Dyer sold his interest to his son and moved to Seasport, which place has since been his home. Capt. Dyer was a capable, enterprising and successful sea captain of the old school, a class of mariners that is fast dying out. He will be remembered by the older seafaring men of Portland. He leaves a wife, two sons and one daughter—Robert F. Dyer, shoe dealer of Portland, Herbert F. Dyer, a grocer of Seasport, and Mrs. Frank Smith of Portland.—Portland Daily Press, Nov. 22nd.

The funeral services were held at the late residence on Steamboat street, Saturday and were conducted by Rev. T. P. Williams. The interment was in the family lot in Lincolnville Center. The bearers were Capt. C. A. Whittier, Capt. R. F. Colcord, Capt. D. C. Nichols, and Capt. J. T. Erskine.

THE RECORD IN BELFAST IS A UNIQUE ONE.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Belfast citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. Mary M. Smith of 34 Union Street, Belfast, Me., says: "I have had kidney complaint and backache for a number of years. The attacks were so severe that it was difficult for me to give proper attention to my household work. Added to the suffering was an annoyance caused by weakness of the kidney action. The secretions were unnatural and irregular, despite the fact I was continually using medicines. Finally I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at the City Drug Store. The benefit I derived from their use was entirely satisfactory. The pains and aches were relieved and the kidneys so strengthened that I have not been troubled with any irregularities or weakness since. It was several years ago that I first used this remedy and I have never changed my good opinion of it."

Dyer sold his interest to his son and moved to Seasport, which place has since been his home. Capt. Dyer was a capable, enterprising and successful sea captain of the old school, a class of mariners that is fast dying out. He will be remembered by the older seafaring men of Portland. He leaves a wife, two sons and one daughter—Robert F. Dyer, shoe dealer of Portland, Herbert F. Dyer, a grocer of Seasport, and Mrs. Frank Smith of Portland.—Portland Daily Press, Nov. 22nd.

Beautiful Hand Drawn Linens From Aguascalientes, Mexico.

This is what a woman said to us one day last week: "I have visited the several stores claiming to have these beautiful goods and at Johnson's I found the biggest assortment in just what I wanted." There's a whole sermon in this, it happens to be the logic of business. The store that is best able to supply the wants of a community and will exercise its resources, WILLINGLY, in the effort, is the one to which the people invariably turn when it comes to getting what they really want. Our stock of Mexican work was never as complete as it is today. We have the following sizes in a number of different designs: 4x4, 6x6, 8x8, 12x12, 16x16, 20x20, 24x24, 32x32, 18x27, 20x30, 24x36, 20x45, 40x40.

Manufacturers' Stock of Outing Flannel Night Robes.

OVER 1200 PIECES AT LESS THAN WHOLSALE COST.

During the summer months the Esterbrook Mfg. Co. of this city contracted to furnish one of New England's leading wholesale houses two hundred and fifty dozen Ladies' and Gents' Outing Flannel Night Robes at a specially low price, with the understanding that they should be delivered on or before November 1. Owing to the slow delivery of the flannels by the mills the Esterbrook Mfg. Co. were unable to fill the entire order at the specified time and a balance of over 1200 garments were left on their hands. Knowing about our large output of this class of merchandise, they came to us with a proposition that we readily accepted, and today we offer these Ladies' and Gents' Outing Night Robes in a good quality flannel, seven different colorings, well made with good fullness, at a price too low to even cover cost of material alone. Worth up to 62 cents—choice at only 35c.
